Interdistrict Magnet Schools

Categories : Education

Interdistrict magnet schools attract students from different districts who come together to learn in education settings that offer a range of themes or teaching philosophies that include STEM (science, technology, engineering and math), environmental science, Montessori, performing arts, and global and international studies. Some high school programs also provide opportunities for students to receive college credit with higher education partnerships.

For more information about interdistrict magnet schools go to Connecticut State Department of Education

To Find Providers in Connecticut's Community Resources Database
Search by service name: Magnet Schools

_____

SOURCE: Connecticut State Department of Education
PREPARED BY: 211/mm
CONTENT LAST REVIEWED: April2024